When we are in the right relationship we are healthy and vital with a good sense of timing. When we are in a difficult one, we seem to have health issues as well as psychological difficulties. Laura will use our natal Venus/Saturn aspects along with midpoints and solar arcs to give you timing on the health of the relationship. She will show how future trends and cycles affect each of us in multiple areas, but specifically how relationships can affect our health and well being. Major events can also be forecasted in relationships easily through the 90 degree dial and midpoint structures. Laura likes to make this fun, so please bring your charts and enjoy.
