“The Astonishing Synchronicity of Astrology and the News”

Discover the astro-logic driving the news...from the front page to the obituaries. Why is that story making news NOW? Why is that person making news NOW? See examples (from over a decade of research) of news stories and articles published in perfect reflection of planetary patterns, even though some articles were written long before. Headline after headline conforms to the astrology of the moment, with some dramatic and funny correlations.

BIO: Elisabeth Grace is an ISAR CAP certified consulting astrologer, a School of Traditional Astrology (STA) certified horary practitioner and a highest-honors graduate of Noel Tyl's rigorous master's course for professional astrologers. She studies medical astrology with Lee Lehman (STA). Freelancing at WNBC and CNBC inspired her must-read weekly forecast. “When I worked in a newsroom, I noticed the astonishing synchronicity of planetary patterns and the news. The original conceit of my forecast was to see if I could predict what we'd see on the homepage of The New York Times. That was 15 years ago, and I'm still forecasting!”

Elisabeth has written for Dell Horoscope and many other fine publications. She penned "Charts in the News" for Mountain Astrologer for many years. Her forecast, “Why Now News” is now published on Substack. Meanwhile, Elisabeth creates workshops for corporate clients, with a focus on using astrology as a tool for improving workplace relationships. She is always delighted to talk about astrology in a way that is fun, informative and meaningful to “non-professionals,” and confesses that the skills she learned in improv and stand-up comedy come in handy.
